

3.0 ANNOTATED LIST OF PROPERTIES:
Combined 1998 and 2017 Resources

3.1 ANNOTATED LIST OF PROPERTIES

The Annotated List of Properties catalogs all resources reviewed during the field work for the Intensive Level Survey Project for the Town of Amherst including both 1998 and 2017 resources. These buildings have been evaluated based on their adherence to the Applicable Local Landmarking Criteria:

- I. Contains properties which meet one or more of the criteria for designation as a landmark
- II. Is an area that represents several periods or styles of architecture typical of different areas of history
- III. Is an area that has several buildings of the same architectural period or style and thus constitutes unified architectural streetscape consistency or a significant community uniformity of style
- IV. Is an area connected with significant events or cultural happenings or developments involving ethnic, religious groups or other groups of special historical interest; and
- V. By reason of possessing such qualities, constitutes a distinct section of the Town of Amherst.

To organize and clarify the data recorded in this survey, the list is arranged by street address. Each entry contains a thumbnail color photograph of the property, location, tax ID number, approximate date of construction, brief description, and notes about condition. In addition, known names of businesses or individuals associated with the property are also recorded, if available. Where applicable, a Unique Site Number (USN) has been included based on information from the NYSHPO's CRIS database. Property names in this annotated list come from current signage on the building, or have come from the CRIS database.

Additional dates and information have been taken from Historic Resource Inventory Forms ("blueforms") prepared in 1998 by Bero Associates Architects. Resources found to have been previously recognized as local landmarks are also recorded. Dates are noted as circa based on review of exterior stylistic details and construction techniques. These dates should take into consideration a margin of error of approximately 10 years when circa is applied. In some cases, a more specific date has been identified for certain prominent sites. Further research and investigation may yield more specific information about the construction dates of these properties.

Each building, structure or property has been rated as:

- "I" – Potentially individually significant resource: This resource appears to retain a high level of architectural and/or historical significance. Buildings or properties identified as individually significant generally have a high quality of design, exhibit a recognizable architectural style and retain a high level of integrity of location, setting, materials, workmanship, feeling and association. This category may also include vernacular examples which, although they may not represent a specific style, still retain a high level of craftsmanship or form typical of their historic period. This resource may also have a strong connection to a significant event of local, state or federal importance. These properties appear to meet one or more of the criteria for State and National Registers of Historic Places designation.

- “I/D” – Potentially individually significant resource which also contributes to a historic district: This property appears to retain a high level of architectural and/or historical significance, and merits designation as a local landmark as an individual property. This property is also located in a potential State and National Registers historic district, and contributes to the sense of place and character of that district.
- “D” – Significant resource that contributes to a potential historic district: This property appears to retain a good level of architectural and/or historical significance, but, if taken alone, this property may not warrant individual local landmark designation. However, it contributes to the sense of place and character of a clearly definable geographical area, urban or rural, possessing a significant concentration, linkage, or continuity of sites, buildings, structures, or objects united by past events or aesthetically by plan or physical development.
- “L” – Listed resource: This resource has previously been listed as a local landmark or on the State and National Registers of Historic Places (as noted), either individually or as part of a district. These resources are recorded here as reference and to give context to adjacent or neighboring properties in this survey.
- “N” – Not Eligible: This resource does not appear eligible for designation as a local or State and National Register landmark.
- “U” – Undetermined: Additional investigation or information is required to properly evaluate this resource.

In addition to this rating, each property has also been evaluated based on its general condition as visible from the street. These ratings are to be used as a general guide only and not as recommendations for restoration or rehabilitation work, as the building interiors have not been evaluated during this process and a thorough evaluation of the exteriors has not been made. These ratings are:<sup>1</sup>

- Excellent: No apparent need for routine maintenance work or repairs.
- Good: No apparent need for major repairs, but in need of routine maintenance work such as painting.
- Fair: In need of repairs other than routine maintenance work.
- Deteriorated: In need of major repairs.

Locations of each resource in the Annotated List of Properties are identified by their address based on data from the Erie County GIS system. This address is recorded to correspond with the tax identification number to specifically identify each property. These addresses may not correspond to a property's mailing address, but are used here as the official tax identification address.

Across the creek (and accessible from the Reist Street side of the parcel) are a contributing Late Gothic Revival chapel, a contributing bam, two other contributing outbuildings once associated with the original Holy Family Home for the Aged. The property is well landscaped with curving drives, stone walls, steps, entrance posts, mature trees, an old orchard, religious statuary, and a cemetery (1939).
