

LOOKING FOR PARTICIPANTS FOR UB STUDY

The State University of New York at Buffalo's Department of Community Health and Health Behavior is conducting a study to examine preclinical cardiovascular disease and marital functioning in middle aged adults

They are looking for participants between the ages of 50 and 64 who are currently married or living as if married. Those who choose to participate in our study will receive an estimate of their current risk of cardiovascular disease, a number of medical tests at no cost, and a report of their results to discuss with their physician.
